

(50) Strategic Roadmap

Compliance Rating - „Digitalization of Democracy“

There are significant potential benefits for organizations that partially or fully adopt the solution. Later we plan to offer a future compliance rating service, “Digitalization of Democracy,” which will assess and track compliance on a fee basis.

For example, a homeowners’ association (HOA) with a high compliance rating respects homeowners’ rights and provides a high level of transparency, making it much more attractive to potential future residents. The same logic applies to companies, towns, and other organizations.

How can compliance be measured?

- Number, type, and severity of individual requests/claims (vetoes)
- Organizational self-check
- External compliance service: the planned future service “Digitalization of Democracy”

Benefits for Adopting Organizations

The framework also serves as a compliance framework. By accepting and committing to it, an organization can assess and improve its compliance in all relevant areas, or selectively in some areas, depending on its priorities and capabilities.

It speeds up the establishment of potential cooperation between organizations, both nationally and internationally.

A common minimum service level for owners leads to similar processes across different organizations, enabling much faster and easier communication and cooperation.

It enables cooperation between organizations with opposing views. The governance and control framework provides a common platform on which organizations can easily complement each other.

For example, opposing political parties can cooperate: a right-leaning party may wish to increase compliance regarding three rights, while a left-leaning party may focus on two other rights.

In Summary

The planned compliance rating solutions enable rated organizations to continuously increase their level of compliance, resulting in higher owner satisfaction, greater transparency, less fraud, fewer violations, and improved economic efficiency.

Future Updates

We plan to make several updates per year. These updates will not significantly expand the content, but will focus on improving clarity and usability. Over time, we also aim to provide translations so that non-English speakers can use it as well.
